

THE CITY'S SOCIAL SIDE

Miss Willett Now Bride of C. H. Woodhull

The marriage of Miss Margaret Rutherford Willett to Charles Herrill Woodhull took place today at noon in St. John's Church, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Roland Cotton Smith, officiating. The ceremony was attended by a small but distinguished company.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Maj. Gen. Henry G. Sharpe, U. S. A., and Mrs. George Vanderbilt, as matron of honor, was her only attendant. Anthony C. Addison was best man for Mr. Woodhull, and the list of ushers includes Henry Randall Webb, John Sidney Webb, Grace King Richards, John O'Connell, Siebert, Benjamin S. Minor, and Frederick A. Delano.

There was no reception to follow the ceremony and shortly afterward Mr. Woodhull and his bride left town for the North. Upon their return from their wedding trip they will occupy the residence of the late Brig. Gen. Benjamin C. Card, 1734 N. street, which Mr. Woodhull has rented for the season.

Mrs. Woodhull is the daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Willett, of New York, and Brookgreen plantation, S. C., and a niece of Mrs. Henry G. Sharpe. Her sister is Mrs. Ralph Smith. Mr. Woodhull, who has been identified with Washington for many years, is a brother of Brig. Gen. Maxwell van Zandt Woodhull, U. S. A., retired, and Miss Ellen Woodhull, with whom he formerly made his home. He is a member of the Metropolitan and Chevy Chase Clubs. The wedding today, although marked by simplicity of detail, is of much social interest owing to the prominence of both families.

Mrs. Willett has an apartment at 1517 K street for the winter.

The President and Mrs. Wilson played golf this morning at one of the country clubs. Yesterday afternoon they motored to Fort Myer, accompanied by Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, for the graduation exercises at the reserve officers' training camp.

The Italian ambassador, Count V. Macchi di Cellere, accompanied by his daughter, Countess Agnese di Cellere, will go to New York on December 1 for Italian day at Horro Lamb, the mammoth bazaar for the allies now in progress. It is possible that Countess di Cellere will accompany them. The party will include Gen. Emilio Guglielmotti, military attaché of the embassy; the naval attaché, Capt. Umberto Vanzetti, and Mr. Falorni, of the embassy staff.

Mrs. Daniels Luncheon.

Mrs. Josephus Daniels entertained at luncheon yesterday in compliment to the members of the Woman's Advisory Committee on Navy Auxiliaries to the Red Cross Council. The guests included Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia, chairman; Mrs. George Barnhart, Mrs. W. R. Brooks, Jr., of Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. Frederick D. Countess, of Chicago; Mrs. George J. Dennis, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, of New York; Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, Mrs. Bryan Lathrop, of Chicago; Mrs. E. T. Meredith, of Des Moines, Iowa; Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, of New York; Mrs. Henry R. Rea, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, of Bloomingdale, Illinois; and Washington; Mrs. French Vanderbilt, of Newport, R. I.; Mrs. Charles S. Hamilton, and Mrs. John Holliday, of St. Louis, Mo., all members of the committee; also Mrs. Adelaide Worth Bagley, Commander Fred R. Payne, Miss Jane Law Lachlan, Miss Ethel Bagley, and Miss Cora Bagley.

MRS. HERBERT SPARROW.

Marion Cleveland To Become Bride Of New Yorker

A marriage of unusual interest to Washingtonians will take place in Princeton on Thanksgiving Day when Miss Marion Cleveland, daughter of the late President Grover Cleveland, will become the bride of William Stanley Dell, of New York. The engagement of Miss Cleveland and Mr. Dell, a Princeton graduate, who is connected with the editorial staff of the New York Sun, was announced last June. Miss Cleveland was a student at Teachers' College, Columbia University, for two years.

The wedding, which will be solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, Jr., in Princeton, will be simple, as the bridegroom is in mourning.

A number of Washington girls have volunteered as a committee to sell souvenir programs at the Thanksgiving Day soldiers' benefit football game in the American League ball park between the U. S. Army Ambulance Service and Georgetown University teams. Among those who will be on the committee are Miss Susie Walker, the Misses Nolan, Miss Margaret Devereaux, Miss Ruth Stiles, Miss Mildred Sisson, and Miss Mary Hartley.

Maj. Underwood to Sail for Haiti With Bride After Wedding

Miss Nina Marguerite Stockton and Major Robert Oscar Underwood, U. S. M. C., will be married this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the rectory of St. Matthew's Church, the Rev. Father Edward L. Burke, assistant pastor, officiating. Miss Stockton is a niece of Mrs. George Croghan Reid, widow of Brigadier General Reid, U. S. M. C., with whom she has made her home since she was a child. Only relatives and a few close friends will attend the ceremony, and the small reception which will follow at the home of Miss May Adams in New Hampshire avenue. The bride, who will be given in marriage by Col. George C. Reid, U. S. M. C., will wear a becoming costume of dark blue satin and georgette crepe, trimmed with self-colored embroidery. Her hat is of blue satin and tulle, with bright colored satin fruit about the crown, and she will wear a corsage bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. A top coat of gold-colored tulle, which she will don on leaving the rectory, will complete her costume.

Major Underwood and his bride will take a short wedding trip and will sail on December 1 for Haiti, where he is on duty. Since her arrival in Washington a fortnight ago Miss Stockton has been staying with Miss Adams. Mrs. Reid is at the Graton.

Poster Exhibit Popular.

The English and American Poster Exhibition, which is being held every day this week at the residence of Mrs. Charles W. Richardson, 1517 Connecticut avenue, is achieving a decided success. Among Mrs. Richardson's assistants will be Mrs. Lewis Titus, Mrs. Henry Johnson, and Mrs. Kenneth Grant, all three of whom are Californians, who have come to spend the winter in Washington. Capt. Charles E. Harlow will have charge of the door receipts. One of the features of this exhibition has been the number of men who have attended. In commenting upon it some one remarked that they could scarcely keep away when so many of the posters represented sports, fishing, golf, tennis, etc.

Belmonts Theater Guests.

Capt. and Mrs. Percy Belmont were guests in Mrs. Ogden Goslet's box at the Metropolitan Opera House last evening, when "Faust" was given for the first time this season. Mrs. Goslet's sister-in-law, Mrs. R. T. Wilson, was also with her.

Congressman and Mrs. James R. Mann have returned to Washington after an extended absence, during which they spent some time at their home in Chicago and visited Atlantic City and several Northern resorts. They are at their apartment in the Highlands for the winter.

Hosts To Explorers.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Butler will be hosts at an informal reception tomorrow evening in compliment to Dr. and Mrs. Wilfred Thomas Greenfield, who are their guests. Some interesting pictures demonstrating the work of Dr. Greenfield's Labrador mission will be shown during the evening.

Visiting Officers to Dance.

Officers of the Belgian, Italian and French military commissions here were invited today to attend the annual formal ball of the Spanish-American Athenaeum, which will be held tomorrow night in the crystal room of the Ebbitt Hotel.

The event is always one of Washington's biggest Pan-American social events. W. J. Faulkner, secretary of the Athenaeum, is in charge of arrangements. Dancing will begin at 8 o'clock and supper will be served at 10:30 o'clock.

The soloist was Percy Grainger, the noted Australian pianist, who is now enlisted as a musician in the United States army. Mrs. Wilson's other guests were Mrs. Mahlon Pitney, Mrs. Josephus Daniels, Miss Bertha Bolling, Miss Edith Benham, and Miss Helen Woodrow Bones. The British Ambassador and Lady Spring Rice entertained a small party in their box, and Mrs. William Crozier had with her the Secretary of War and Mrs. Baker.

The Christ Child Society already reaches more than 2,000 children annually, and the war will greatly increase that number.

DAMROSCH WINS APPLAUSE WITH RUSS SYMPHONY

The Tchaikowsky symphony "Pathétique," with Walter Damrosch conducting, proved a thing to conjure with at the first concert of the New York Symphony Society at the Belasco Theater yesterday afternoon. Hearing this symphony twice within as many weeks, the reading of Mr. Damrosch showed how mightily a spell the conductor can weave around the playing of his orchestra, and it revealed as well that master hand of the dramatist in music, with poetic heights of emotion and in infinite variety in fine detail, that have made the Wagner operas under Mr. Damrosch a standard for this country.

The program of the concert was designed as an all Tchaikowsky one, with Percy Grainger, now a picturesque national figure in his regimental khaki of the United States army, as soloist in the piano concerto in A flat. Out of courtesy to the Washington Society of the Fine Arts and to supplement their educational course, Mr. Damrosch prefaced his concert with a beautiful and scholarly rendition of the Handel concerto for two wind choirs.

With paths that were poignant and in a mood of deepest tragedy, Mr. Damrosch held the "Pathétique." The whole texture of the orchestra was ominous, covered. It sang of the East, impassioned love songs that soared to the melodious heights in which Tchaikowsky reigns apart, or again, in an interlude of lyric beauty Mr. Damrosch brought an element that was sunlit in its brightness. Dynamically, masterfully, dramatically strong in contrast, it was in truth a perfect tone-poem that reflected the sinuous dance of the East or, as in the third movement, gave a delineation of such richness and force that the orchestra was brought to its feet to acknowledge the applause it brought forth.

Percy Grainger as soloist brought all that buoyant vitality, that brilliant flow of crystal clear, clean-cut execution into his playing that serve to individualize his work. He has an admirably fluent and commanding technique and in his soft passages a more ingratiating color and depth that held tones of much beauty—harps tones at times—and in the waltz that closed the symphony he created a delightfully rhythmic fantasy as airy and illusive as a breeze.

But of the message of Tchaikowsky one was not so much aware. His tones are like brilliant diamonds, not the warmer pearls that sink into the ever lovely music of the orchestra. It was pianistic, delightfully so, but held little of the imagination or poetry. In response to the insistent applause Mr. Grainger played as encore a typical Grainger improvisation that tended no-whither.

AMERICAN ARMIES BEING TAUGHT TO SING WHILE HIKING

Cromwell's squadrons who galloped into battle singing will be duplicated in the soldiers America sends across the seas. The old opinion of some military commanders—that the best brute is the best soldier—now stands. Among the military instructors at encampments will be found a division of singing instructors.

Congress a few days ago appointed that the singing soldier is the hardest marcher and the toughest fighter. "Send a regiment off on a hike and train them to sing as they march and they'll come back 25 per cent fresher than as if they had merely trudged along," one officer declared.

"Our men aren't the right disposition to learn Puritan hymns. But a song like 'Pack up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag' makes a sulky regiment cheerful, and a state, tired out one full of spirit and fight. We know. We've tried it."

"One reason for German success in their singing regiments." Out of their camp singing classes, it is expected, may come the success to the war-favorite tunes of '81 and '98. Instructors are to teach the men how to sing all at once and much in the same key.
